

Family and Succession Law

Editor: Prof. Dr. Walter Pintens

E-mail: walter.pintens@law.kuleuven.be

Family and succession law are tightly bound together. Succession law is usually based on kindred relationships as established by family law. The trends established in the marital property laws and succession laws are often a result of developments in family law. Equality of spouses and of all children, regardless of their descent, is not without consequences for marital property laws and succession law. Therefore, this comprehensive comparative looseleaf set covers family law together with marital property law and succession law.

This unique loose leaf publication comprises alongside the national and international monographs the most important European and international regulations, as well as the most important case law from international Courts.

More than 30 prominent legal scholars and practitioners provide practical information and valuable insights into the legal framework and procedures specific to their country or international organisation.

The national monographs are written to a standard outline. However, this standard outline is not always followed due to great differences which exist in the family laws of many legal systems.

Besides the national monographs, this Encyclopaedia also includes international monographs describing the activities of several international organisations in the domain of family and succession law, such as the Council of Europe, the European Union and the International Commission on Civil Status.

Although this Encyclopaedia has primarily academic aspirations, practical information is given as much as possible, and only essential references are included as footnotes.

This Encyclopaedia stimulates comparative studies by providing the necessary, basic material of family and succession law.

A subject index at the end of each monograph provides a useful and timesaving reference aid. Furthermore, detailed topical table of contents for each monograph facilitates country-to-country and subject-to-subject comparison.
